PART 1

THE NATIONAL CARE SERVICE

CHAPTER 1

THE PRINCIPLES AND FOUNDATIONAL DOCUMENTS OF THE NATIONAL CARE SERVICE

Principles

1 The National Care Service principles

- (1) The National Care Service principles are—
 - (a) the services provided by the National Care Service are to be regarded as an investment in society that—
 - (i) is essential to the realisation of human rights,
 - (ii) enables people to thrive and fulfil their potential, and
 - (iii) enables communities to flourish and prosper,
 - (b) for them to be such an investment, the services provided by the National Care Service must be financially stable in order to give people long-term security,
 - (c) services provided by the National Care Service are to be centred around addressing individual needs, recognising the diverse characteristics and circumstances of the individuals to whom the services are provided, whether those needs are (for example)—
 - (i) best addressed by early interventions, including rehabilitation, that prevent or delay the development of care needs and reduce care needs that already exist,
 - (ii) best addressed by the provision of support for an individual living independently in the community,

- (iii) ongoing, increasing or increasingly complex,
 - (d) services provided by the National Care Service are to be designed—
 - (i) collaboratively with the people to whom they are provided and their carers,
 - (ii) so that they are experienced by those people and carers as integrated,
 - (e) opportunities are to be sought to continuously improve the services provided by the National Care Service in ways which—
 - (zi) take account of the whole life experience (including any psychological trauma) of the individual,
 - (i) promote the dignity of the individual,
 - (ii) advance equality and non-discrimination, and
 - (iii) otherwise give better and further effect to these principles,
 - (ea) services provided by the National Care Service are to protect and improve the safety of the persons to whom the services are provided,
 - (f) the National Care Service workforce is to communicate with people in an inclusive way, which means ensuring that the diverse communication needs of individuals (in relation to speech, language or otherwise) are recognised, in particular so that individuals can receive information and express themselves in ways that best meet their individual needs,
 - (h) the individuals comprising the National Care Service workforce are to be recognised and valued for the critically important work they do, and the persons who employ or otherwise professionally engage them are to be exemplars in so doing in their approach to fair work.
- (2) In subsection (1), “human rights” includes the rights contained in any international convention, treaty or other international instrument ratified by the United Kingdom, subject to—
- (a) any amendments in force in relation to the United Kingdom for the time being, and
 - (b) any reservations, objections or interpretative declarations by the United Kingdom for the time being in force.

1A Reviewing the principles

- (1) The Scottish Ministers must—
 - (a) first review the National Care Service principles within 5 years of the day on which section 1 came into force,
 - (b) after that, review the principles within 5 years of the last review concluding.
- (2) In reviewing the National Care Service principles, the Scottish Ministers must—
 - (a) consult—
 - (i) the National Care Service Board, and
