14th Meeting, 2024 (Session 6)

National Planning Framework 4 (NPF4) Annual Update

Introduction

1. National Planning Framework 4 (NPF4) was adopted by Scottish Ministers on 13 February 2023, following its unanimous approval by the Scottish Parliament on 11 January 2023. The Committee agreed that it would review on an annual basis whether NPF4 was achieving its intended ambitions. The purpose of this paper is to provide information to help inform the Committee's evidence session with key stakeholders looking at the National Planning Framework 4 a year on from its adoption.

2. The Committee will take evidence from two panels:

Panel 1 (Planning and built environment professionals)

- Jenny Munro, Royal Town Planning Institute (RTPI), Policy and Practice Officer
- Catriona Hill, Royal Incorporation of Architects in Scotland (RIAS), Chair of the Highlands Island's Architectural Association
- Ailsa Macfarlane, Built Environment Forum Scotland, Director
- Craig McLaren, National Planning Improvement Champion

Panel 2 (Housing)

- Kevin Murphy, Homes for Scotland, Head of Planning
- Tony Cain, Association of Local Authority Chief Housing Officers (ALACHO), Policy Manager
- Donna Young, Rural Housing Scotland, Coordinator
- Ailsa Raeburn, Community Land Scotland, Chair

3. This is the first of 3 evidence sessions looking at NPF4. The sessions will conclude with an appearance from the Minister for Local Government Empowerment and Planning at the Committee's meeting on 21 May.

4. Although no written evidence has been received by the witnesses participating in this session, the following written evidence has been received:

A submission from Scottish and Southern Electricity Networks \(SSEN\)

A submission from Coastal Communities Network, Scotland

A submission from the John Muir Trust

Background

5. NPF4 is a long-term plan looking to 2045 that guides spatial development, sets out national planning policies, designates national developments and highlights regional spatial priorities.
6. The key sections of the adopted NPF4 are:
 - National Spatial Strategy: The national spatial strategy guides decisions on future development across Scotland, which aims to produce:
 - Sustainable places, which reduce emissions and restore and better connect biodiversity.
 - Liveable places, where people can live better, healthier lives.
 - Productive places, which produce a greener, fairer and more inclusive wellbeing economy.
 - The National Spatial Strategy is underpinned by six spatial principles for Scotland in 2045, these are a just transition, conserving and recycling assets, local living, compact urban growth, rebalanced development, and rural revitalisation. It also recognises the different challenges and opportunities across Scotland's regions, which are described in five geographic "regional spatial priorities".
 - National Developments: There are 18 national developments, which support the delivery of the National Spatial Strategy, these range from significant infrastructure projects such as the development of urban mass/rapid transit systems in Aberdeen, Edinburgh, and Glasgow, to the continued expansion of the Central Scotland Green Network.
 - National Planning Policy: NPF4 sets out 33 national planning policies, covering areas such as climate change, biodiversity, play, flood risk and other major land use policy matters.
 - Minimum All-tenure Housing Land Requirements: This section sets out the minimum number of housing units that local, city-region and national park authorities must plan, as a minimum, to accommodate in future development plans. The Scottish Government has provided an explanatory report of how the MATHLR has been calculated, which can be accessed at the following link:
